

As the women and men in America's hospitals and health systems heroically fight COVID-19 on behalf of their patients and communities, a number of companies are offering discounts to these front-line health care workers and those who want to support them. The AHA is sharing information provided to us by these organizations, but is not in a position to guarantee the discounts listed below.

Thank you to the many businesses both large and small for your willingness to support our health care heroes. This page will be updated as new partnerships and discounts develop.

As a reminder, our hotels are not designed or equipped to operate as a medical facility, nor are our hotel colleagues trained to provide medical services. To the degree a hotel is to be used to provide any medical services or to house guests who are ill, the hotel will need to consider a variety of issues including but not limited to: who will provide the services, who will provide security, proper safety training, insurance limitations, licensing requirements, indemnity, return of the premises and for future hotel use. To the degree a hotel is not being asked to provide medical services but is being asked or agreeing to provide rooms or services that differ from normal hotel operations, such as for a first responder, a stranded traveler, or a displaced person, the same considerations may apply, and a hotel may consider developing a separate occupancy, lease or services agreement.
